Ref: Loan to The Ugandan Government

We Ugandans are writing to IMF and World bank about the continuous funding to the Ugandan government. The Ugandans are requesting the IMF and the world bank to stop giving loans to President Museveni at the expense of Ugandans. The Ugandans have reliable information that Museveni has used public funding from the IMF and world bank brutalize Ugandans and swindle the funds into offshore accounts. The IMF and world bank should understand that funds provide to Museveni and for his personal uses and Ugandans should not be liable for the payment. The current continued process of providing loans to Museveni is a predatory lending to Ugandans. The IMF and the world bank should understand that Museveni is not willing to repay back the loans and he has asked the IMF and the world bank to forgive the loans Ref [14]. Some of the few cases highlighted below, exhibit the corruption of Museveni and his regime in the previous 34 yrs in power. We request the IMF and world bank not to ignore Ugandans and especially the opposition members led by Kyadondo Member of Parliament Robert Kyagulanyi Sentamu AKA Bobi wine.

- (1) President Museveni and his family members that include Sam Kutesa his in-law have orchestrated a corrupt system and are swindling loans into offshore accounts Ref [12].
- (2) Abuse of Refugee Process by the Museveni who has created fake refugee from Ethiopians, Burundians, Eritreans, Congolese, Sudanese, and Rwandese. Museveni is using the refugee situation to extort money from donors. Museveni uses the fake refugees to fraud the presidential election process in Uganda to vote for him. In exchange, Museveni gives Ugandan passports to economic refugees and a process to come to the USA, Canada, Australia, and other western nations. On the contrary the Ugandans have been forced to seek refuge in other countries such as USA, Britain, Canada, and many girls working as maids in the middle East.
- (3) President Museveni has engaged in political persecution, torture, and cold-blood murder of Ugandans Ref [13] mainly the opposition members lead by the Kyadondo Member of Parliament Robert Kyagulanyi Sentamu AKA Bobi wine. Museveni has been involved in several genocides in Uganda. In 1986, Museveni lead a war and was directly involved in killing at least 1.5 million Ugandans in Luwero triangle Ref [15]. Museveni was involved in massacre of the Acholi in northern Uganda. In 2016, Museveni ordered Brigadier Peter Elweru to massacre the Bakonjo Tribe in Kasese.
- (4) In the past, 34 years the donors and western nations have put pressure on Museveni to promote democracy in Uganda. To appear democratic to the donors, President Museveni created fake opposition groups through which he was able crack down on true democracy.

(5) Museveni is planning a Genocide during the upcoming 2021 presidential elections in Uganda. There are several cases where Museveni has been directly involved in war crimes in the great lake regions of East Africa.

- a. President Museveni sponsored the war that lead to the 1994 genocide in Rwanda. The current president of Rwanda Paul Kagame was a military commander in the Ugandan force who took power in Rwanda through a military coup sponsored by Museveni.
- b. President Museveni has involved in sponsoring war extremists in Congo and looting minerals.
- c. President Museveni was involved in war crimes in South Sudan
- d. President Museveni was involved in war crimes in Burundi
- e. President Museveni sent Ugandan soldiers who engaged in war crimes in 2017 Kenyan elections.

On May 6th, 2020, the IMF approved a Loan of USD $491.5 million Ref [1] to Uganda government to address the Covid-19 crisis. The Ugandans request the IMF to reconsider Covid-19 Loan and future Loans pending investigations about appropriation of the funding. The funding is intended to support Ugandans within this Covid-19 crisis. However, our evidence in the Refs attached, prove that the Loan has been misappropriated table 1 & Ref [9] and swindled by government officials.

During this Covid-19 crisis, Ugandans followed the World Health Organization (WHO) directive to quarantine. The government pledged to provide relief food Ref [5] to at least 1.5 million Ugandans in desperate need. President Museveni passed a directive prohibiting Ugandans from distributing food to those in need Ref [11]. The president equated food distribution to murder punishable by DEATH. Only government officials were given mandate to distribute food. However, the Ugandan government has barely provided relief food to the 1.5 million Ugandans. The little food distributed (beans and posho Ref [2] so far is unhealthy and harmful for human consumption. According to the speaker of Uganda parliament Rebecca Kadaga, the milk Ref [9] that was provided to the Ugandans is expired and not fit for human consumption. Most of the Ugandan are already in danger of hunger Ref [3] during these Covid-19 times. We have evidence that the distributed food per home (approximately 5kg/11lbs) is done by military personnel who are committing atrocities Ref [4] to vulnerable people. The military personnel are rapping women and, in some cases, giving food in exchange for sex.

Due to government failure to provide food to families facing hunger, some Ugandans Ref [7] within the country and overseas are donating food. However, the government of Uganda has politicized the Covid-19 crisis by arresting and torturing opposition members from the people power movements. In Ref [6] Member of Parliament for Kampala municipality Muhammad Nsereko can be seen distributing food with no arrest. On the other hand, MP for Mityana municipality Zaake Francis Ref [7] was arrested on April 19th, 2020 and brutally tortured by president's Military force (SFC). One of SFC individuals who tortured MP Francis Zaake is Amos Kagoro Ref [10]. MP Francis Zaake was arrested for distributing food to his starving constituent Ref [9] There has been several arrests and illegal detention of people power members Ref [8] . It should be noted that April 19th, 2020 is the second time for MP Zaake was arrested and tortured. The first time MP Zaake was arrested and tortured was Aug 2018.

The government of Uganda has misappropriated the funds according to speaker of Ugandan parliament Rebecca Kadaga table 1 and Ref [9] . The misappropriate spending in table-1 below was whistle blown by MP for Kyadondo East constituency and people power leader Robert Kyagulanyi Ssentamu AKA Bobi wine. Robert Kyagulanyi mentioned the parliament to which he belonged was bribed with 10 billion Uganda shillings to be split amongst the 426 members of parliament. The 10 billion Uganda shilling was a bribe to the Parliamentary members to favor the president Museveni's supplementary spending budget shown in table-1 below. Robert Kyagulanyi returned the bribe money saying that hungry Ugandans need it the most and called on fellow MPs to return the bribe which speaker Rebecca Kadaga objected Ref [9] After a global outcry of Ugandans calling on MPs to return the bribe, President Museveni who had provided the bribe, called on MPs to return the money. Parliamentary Speaker Rebecca Kadaga was not happy that the president had portrayed her and other MPS as corrupt, so she went on revenge rampage on TV Ref [9] against President Museveni. On TV, Speaker Rebecca Kadaga said that 10 billion was small in compared to billions (shown in table 1) stolen by government bureaucrats. She went on to say that the milk and food provided was expired and unfit for human consumption despite the billions granted for food relief table 1. Speaker Rebecca went to say that nobody including the Members of Parliament and the President cared about welfare of Uganda.

The covid-19 crisis has caused the Ugandan government to expose the enormous level of corruption orchestrated by the President Museveni and his regime including the government organs. These Covid-19 times are desperate times the Ugandan need the relief food and essentials. Instead the government bureaucrats have embezzled the money to be used for personal projects such as those shown in Ref [9] .

#	Uganda shillings	Misappropriated funds Ref [9] .
1	15 Billion	Office of President Museveni Internal Security Organization (ISO).
2	59 Billion	Office of prime minister Ruhakana Rugunda used to purchase rotten food and expired milk according to Speaker of Parliament Rebecca Kadaga.
3	94 Billion	Ministry of health requested for 62 Billion but the "Thieves adjusted the funding to 94 billion" according to parliamentary speaker Rebecca Kadaga.
4	6 Billion	Ministry of Information and Communications Technology (ICT) requested for 15 billion for Covid-19 to build Billboards that was objected by the parliament and approved 6 billion.
5	10 Billion	Bribe given to Uganda members of parliament
6	400 million	Classified expenditure.

We request the IMF to urgently halt the covid-19 funding and future funding to Ugandan government pending investigations. The investigations include violations listed in table 1 below. We request the IMF to audit the Ugandan government and demand accountability of Covid-19 funds. Ugandans overseas and local will follow legal process that include demonstrations, legal lawsuits that clearly show that the IMF has been secretly corporation with a corrupt regime to approve loans for president Museveni and his few government regime at the expense of Ugandans.

In Uganda, for the first time since 2013, more than three people can legally meet without needing to inform the police. Last week, parts of the Public Order Management Act, a law used to gag political opponents, was declared unconstitutional. But most Ugandans are staying away from crowds and keeping at home to control the spread of coronavirus.

Police in Mityana District on Sunday evening arrested Mityana Municipality MP Francis Zaake for allegedly found distributing food to his starving constituents.

The Wamala region police spokesperson, Ms Rachel Kawala told this publication that the MP was arrested on allegations of distributing food items to constituents in Buswabulongo, Busimbi Division in Mityana municipality contrary to the presidential directives.

Police said the MP had also flouted measures and guidelines of the Covid-19 national task force, led distribution to the vulnerable people.

"Today evening at 6pm, we arrested the honourable Member of Parliament and he is kept in our custody at Mityana central police station for defying the president's directives," Ms Kawala said. Ms Kawala said more details would be provided later by the police spokesperson, Mr Fred Enanga.

The MP's arrest comes hours after he posted that it was his conviction that, government could still deal with starvation without "thieving" from the poor.

This photo tweeted by Mityana Municipality MP Francis Zaake on April 19 shows soldiers at his home. The MP was arrested for allegedly distributing food to his starving constituents

"I have been clandestinely giving out relief food items to my constituents, this, I will not stop doing. In the same spirit, today we have successfully shared more food items in Mityana," he said. About four hours later, the MP tweeted that his home had been raided by security operatives. "The tormentors have broken into my home, they are breaking every door of my house searching to arrest me for the crime of sharing food with the starving people. Sad!," he said.

In his televised addresses recently, President Museveni said politicians who distribute food to starving Ugandans during the virus lockdown face attempted murder charges. The president said whoever wanted to contribute relief items ought to hand them over to the national task force.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr Zaake was seen moving door to door distributing food to his constituents.

March 30, President Yoweri Museveni directed the police to arrest politicians who distribute food

<https://www.hrw.org/news/2020/04/28/uganda-opposition-leader-reported-tortured-police>

Uganda: Opposition Leader Reported Tortured by Police

Pandemic Restrictions No Excuse for Abuse

(Kampala) – An opposition member of parliament was reportedly tortured after security forces arrested him for distributing food to constituents on April 19, 2020, Human Rights Watch said today. Uganda should urgently investigate the claims by witnesses that Francis Zaake was tortured and hold those responsible to account.

On March 30, President Yoweri Museveni directed the police to arrest politicians who distribute food after he banned public and private transport, suspended non-essential services, and closed non-food markets to prevent the spread of Covid-19. The government said that food donations had to go through a government-organized task force.

“Police brutality is always prohibited, pandemic or no pandemic,” said Oryem Nyeko, Uganda researcher at Human Rights Watch, “Uganda’s authorities should urgently look into these allegations and hold those responsible to account.”

While enforcing the government’s Covid-19 measures, security forces have beaten, arbitrarily arrested, and shot civilians, including vendors, journalists, and lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) youth. The Committee to Protect Journalists reported that security forces, purportedly enforcing these measures, have harassed or assaulted at least six journalists since March 19.

Police arrested Zaake at his home in Mityana, about 70 kilometers north of Kampala, as he distributed food to people hard hit by the Covid-19 restrictions. The police held Zaake at the Special Investigations Unit in Kireka, Kampala, and initially denied his lawyers and family members access to him.

On April 22, police transferred Zaake to the Iran-Uganda Hospital in Naguru, where he was being treated for an undisclosed condition while remaining in police custody. The police have denied reports that Zaake was tortured, but three witnesses who saw Zaake told Human Rights Watch that he was unable to walk and appeared to have been severely beaten.

Paul Mwiru, a parliament member who managed to visit Zaake while he was in detention in Kireka, told Human Rights Watch that Zaake could not see and had flesh missing from his chest: “They had beaten his back. He had a lot of bruises in the face. He would not move, because they had hit him so badly.”

Meddard Sseggonu Lubega, Zaake’s lawyer, who visited Zaake in hospital, also saw his injuries: “His legs were swollen, and his head was bruised.” Lubega said Zaake told him that soldiers tortured him while he was detained.

Television news footage at the time of Zaake’s arrest on April 19 shows him able to walk without any apparent injuries. On April 20, police announced that they had charged him with attempted murder, disobedience of lawful orders, and negligent acts likely to spread infection of disease, but did not take him to court within the 48 hours required by Ugandan law.

The police took Zaake before a magistrate’s court in Mityana to be charged on April 27, over a week after his arrest. The magistrate, however, declined to bring charges because of Zaake’s “ill health” and ordered the authorities to provide medical treatment first. Witnesses who were in the courtroom told Human Rights Watch that Zaake was unable to walk, struggled to breathe, and appeared to be in very poor condition.

Law enforcement in Uganda has abused opposition members in the past. In 2018, soldiers beat Zaake and 32 others, including the opposition politician Robert Kyagulanyi, also known as Bobi Wine, in Arua. Police arrested Zaake, who was later taken, unconscious, by “men in military uniform” to a hospital in Kampala. At the time, a witness told Human Rights Watch that they had seen Special Forces Command soldiers beating Zaake. There has been no effective investigation, prosecution, or any form of justice for these abuses, even though Ugandan law prohibits torture and requires public officers to be held individually liable.

“The coronavirus pandemic does not give the government and authorities the right to attack critics and opposition members or dispense with due process,” Nyeko said. “The government should ensure that Zaake gets all necessary quality health care, investigate these serious allegations of torture, and follow up with appropriate action.”
